

Next Steps South West

STUDENT STORIES

Ed Farndon

2nd Year Student and Former
RAF Pilot

Edward left university to pursue a career as a pilot in the RAF.

But after many successful years, he found himself medically discharged with few qualifications to fall back on.

Now he's building a new life for him and his family: studying for an FdA Business, and hoping to pursue a career in accountancy and finance.

His best advice:

Never aspire to have just one career - education allows you to develop, learn and adapt.

How did he get here?

- A-Levels in Physics and Geography
- FdA Business at Truro College

"I NEVER DREAMED I'D END UP HERE"

START YOUR JOURNEY:

    @NextStepsSW

 nextstepssw.ac.uk

Part of the National Collaborative
Outreach Programme