Dear Parents,

It is with a great amount of pleasure that I am able to contact you to let you know about the workshop your child will be taking part in at school. The workshop is called Future Me.

Over the week, students will explore their potential and consider routes into higher education and industry. Through self-led research, group demonstrations and presentations, participants will become more confident in articulating their life achievements and ambitions.

The week ends on a celebratory note with students formally presenting their work to a panel receiving a Next Steps South West certificate to acknowledge their dedication and progress.

The whole week is dedicated to increasing your child's confidence and to give them the communication skills they need to help them during the rest of their school lives and beyond.

Students will not be sitting behind desks all week, in fact the week is extremely interactive and requires them to join in with games and activities as well as do research for their presentations, books and spoken pieces. It is a great week!

The company delivering the training is Articulacy and you can find out more about us as well as a video giving you a taste of what we do here: <https://www.articulacy.co.uk/schools/>

The week is funded by Next Steps South West: www.nextstepsw.ac.uk/

You can help your child have the best possible week by listening to their promotional talk about themselves and support them in their research for potential future jobs and course options.

If you have any questions please contact Leanne on leanne@articulacy.co.uk or 07545219856.

We are really looking forward to meeting and working with your child.

Yours faithfully

Leanne, Business Manager for Articulacy
