At the end of the session 95% of students could correctly identify how much a graduate would need to be earning before they start loan repayments.

96% of students reported that the session gave them an understanding of the student finance application process.

...Today's session was particularly beneficial in this case, as some of the different types of loans and support were explained. This reassured me and supplemented my existing knowledge of student finance.

This evidence demonstrates an increased knowledge of student finance and increased understanding of the funding available to HE students, thus breaking down the potential financial barriers perceived by students.
